

PAIR REUNITED AFTER 18 YEARS

Both Inmates of Jewish Home Unknown to Each Other

WERE LONG ESTRANGED

Introduced by Superintendent,
They Insist on Renewal of Marital Vows

NEW YORK, April 16.—Reunited after being separated for 18 years, Jacob Cantor and his wife, who spent the rest of their days as inmates of the Home of the Daughters of Jacob, at 167th street and 10th avenue, the Bronx, unknown to the other both were admitted recently as inmates and through Albert Kruger, superintendent of the institution, the elderly estranged couple were brought together and another marriage ceremony performed.

Mrs. Cantor told Mr. Kruger of the separation of her husband after nine years of married life. After they parted she went to live with her three daughters by a first marriage.

Two months ago an application was received to admit Samuel Cantor, 78 years old, as an inmate. He had been a collector for the Jewish Theological seminary for many years. He related the same tale of becoming estranged from his wife in 1902.

Further questioning revealed that they were the couple who had become separated years ago.

"I had a good wife," said Cantor, "and how I would like to see her again, but I do not know where she is."

Mrs. Cantor was called to the office and when questioned about her husband, and said she would like to spend her remaining days with him.

Arrangements were then made to have the elderly couple meet. Mrs. Cantor's daughters were summoned, and in the presence of all the inmates the happy reunion occurred three weeks ago. Mr. Cantor clasped his wife in his arms, when he recognized her, and she wept.

Although they were still lawfully married no legal separation having taken place, Mr. Kruger had them married again. Rabbi Wolff, G. Margolis of the United Hebrew Community performed the ceremony. They were then established in the "bridal chamber" on the top floor of one of the dormitories, the first to be fitted in this manner at that institution.

HIGH SCHOOL FRESHMEN

Out of 964, Oklahoma City School
Furnishes 123.

SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.
NORMAN, April 16.—High schools of Oklahoma alone contributed 964 freshmen to the University of Oklahoma this year, according to a statement given out recently by the university registry office.

Oklahoma City high school easily led all other cities of the state in contribution with 123 freshmen.

Norman high school ranked second with 58 and Tulsa high school came in third with 35. These figures are for freshmen alone, all towns contributing scores of upper-classmen, who enrolled in previous years, as well as many new students of higher rank than freshmen.

BEAUTY CULTURE HINTS

There is real common sense in just noticing whether the hair is well kept to judge of a woman's neatness or good taste. If you are one of the few who try to make the most of your hair, remember that it is not advisable to wash the hair with any cleanser made for all purposes, but always use some good shampoo. You can enjoy the very best by getting some canthrox from your druggist, dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough to be easy to apply to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. Shampoo, excess oil, and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. The faster and softer it will also de-lighten you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.—Adv.

Juvenile Musician Is Admitted to Hyeckha Club

There are many stories of oil of the way alone. Mr. Weaver had never given the boy his "Joy Waits," but one day Kenneth imparted the Kenneth was born in Webb City, Mo. His mother died when he was 8. He is now living with his father's aunt, Mrs. M. E. Rogers. This aunt is a sister in Muskogee and his sole relative. He is in the 8-A grade at Irving school, and he likes his studies, but says there is nothing like music. He practices every minute he can, morning, noon and night. In the morning he begins practicing at 7:30 o'clock and continues until the warning sound of the last bell from Irving school, which is just a block from his great aunt's home. He grabs his hat, placed conveniently on the piano, when he hears the bell and arrives at school just on time.

When asked when he began to like music, he said: "All the time I have liked it, ever since I can remember." At 8, when he came to live with his aunt, after his father died, his aunt had an easy method book for music study, and he, without one single lesson from anyone, learned to play, within a year being advanced as far as the seventh and eighth grade in music. He never had any lessons until Prof. John Knowles Weaver of the University of Tulsa music department became interested in him and gave him lessons. He has been studying with Mr. Weaver for about a year and a half and has exhibited remarkable progress in that length of time, according to Mr. Weaver. Last June he was awarded the Weaver prize of $10 for the student showing the most progress in piano. Recently he played for the examining committee of the Hyeckha club and was elected to student membership in the club.

It is Kenneth's ambition to do concert work. He had a concert ticket last year and this year heard Cortes play. He drinks in all the good music he is privileged to hear. Mr. Weaver is anxious that someone interest himself in the boy; it is his opinion that he has great possibilities as a musician, but long and hard will be the road to realization if the boy has to win it every step.

DEATH VALLEY IS NOW FOOL-PROOF

Signposts Will Soon
Guard Safety of Touring
Motorists

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 16.—Death Valley is to be made "fool proof" for motorists and others, according to plans announced today for the placing of 1,200 sign posts within the next three weeks by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

This unique spot of the United States, lying as it does below sea level has been more abused than used. Since "Death Valley Road" flashed over the horizon, the popular idea has been that Funeral range was a mass of prospective skeletons that Furnace creek ran boiling water and Hell's Hole was a straightaway jump into the infernal regions.

Frightened by tales of lost travelers and the lack of water in the desert wastes, motorists have feared to invade this unique domain of borax, dried lakes and gold mines. This fear may be banished when the sign posting of the Automobile Club is completed. The water holes have been marked previously by the government and the Automobile Club will designate the roads with iron sign posts, so that the transcontinental tourists in the springtime and early summer may add this interesting below sea level stretch of desert to their itinerary.

Powell, vice justice. Judge Williams is now federal judge of the eastern district of Oklahoma; Justice McNeill, Oklahoma supreme court, and Judge Loofborow is federal judge of the Panhandle district. Initiation will be followed by a banquet at the hotel.

TROVATORE REPEATS

Cast of Four Years Ago Will Witness
Repetition of Opera
With New Cast.

NORMAN, April 16.—All members of the original cast of "Il Trovatore," opera presented at the University of Oklahoma in 1915, will be present when the opera is repeated by students of the school of fine arts April 26, according to Prof. William G. Schmidt, director.

Joseph Benton, Norman, who played a minor part when the opera was presented before, will take the leading role in the performance this year. Other members of the original cast who will return to see the opera are Charles Fleming, Tulsa, who took the part of Montano, to be played by Benton this year; Minnieha Jones White, Oklahoma City, who played Leonora, this time to be taken by Corryenne Wall, Norman; Hazel Clement, Oklahoma City, who in 1915 played Ines, to be taken this time by Genevieve Douglas, Muskogee; Leon Klusmeyer, Oklahoma City, who was captain of the guard, a role to be taken by Lattimer Baker, Tulsa; and Harold Jimeno, Norman, who took the part of count, to be played by Warren Rider, Guthrie.

Dr. A. H. VanVleet, dean of the college in the middle week without taking an examination.

opera "Il Trovatore" while abroad and will assist in arranging the second production. Both men and women of the college will assist in the chorus. Costumes for the opera have been ordered from Philadelphia.

Bristow School Recognized.
BRISTOW, April 14.—Bristow high school will retain its standing in the North Central Conference of colleges, according to word that was received here this week by City Superintendent Horton.
